Warmingham Is Assembly Talker

Dr. Osbert Wrightman Warmingham was featured speaker at a special assembly held Wednesday at 1 p.m. in Campbell hall auditorium. His subject was "Contributions of Science to Religion."

Dr. Warmingham began his speech by giving four meanings of science. They were: (1) Name for a method of procedure — finding out what we want to know. (2) A body of information gathered by scientific methods. (3) Going into creative fields and markets and producing instruments to improve methods and (4) Going beyond mere what, why and where questions.

He then went on to discuss relationships between science and religion. He stated that we must think of God as something which will correlate with the truths we know. Truth never contradicts truth. The reality that makes this world possible is the God that will live.

Dr. Warmingham also brought out the fact that all things that are constant must be constantly changing; anything that reaches the fire of everyday life and works is real!

European Study Course Planned by Professor

Dr. Hermann Steinhardt, professor of economics at Lewis and Clark college, Portland, has announced plans to conduct an eight-week study course of Europe with possible college credit from the middle of June through August. Countries to be visited include France, Switzerland, Italy, Austria, Belgium, Holland and the Scandinavian countries.

Dr. Steinhardt, who is a native of Vienna, has traveled extensively in all these countries and speaks the main European languages. He is a graduate of the University of Vienna with a degree in economics. He taught in New Hampshire and was an instructor at the Overseas Administrative school at Harvard university before coming to Lewis and Clark college.

He will lecture during the passage to Europe and on the tour about the geography, social and economic problems and culture of the countries to be visited. More than half of the tour will be spent in the Alps. An outdoor enthusiast, Dr. Steinhardt has climbed many of the largest mountain peaks in Switzerland and Austria.

"It will be a unique way for the students and teachers to see Europe by means other than travel bureaus," he points out. "Students will be encouraged to write papers on their fields of interest on the return trip."

Dr. Steinhardt estimates the tour will cost approximately $1300 Portland to Portland and will be limited to 20 persons. Mrs. Steinhardt, also a teacher and linguist, will accompany and assist her husband on the tour.

SUGGESTION BOX PLACED

A box has been placed in the Lamron office to receive suggestions for procedure in next year's freshman initiation.

Laugh at "Charley's Aunt" on March 3-4

The above scene from "Charley's Aunt," the rib-tickling farce to be shown at Campbell hall auditorium on March 3 and 4 at 8 p.m., shows Logan Forster in the role of Charley's Aunt, listening to the confidences of two sweet young things portrayed by Stella Bellingham and Joan Metcalf. George Ten-Eyck and Willis Love are waiting to get "Auntie" alone.

NOTICE!

- Tables will be placed in the halls this week to take money for Groves. Everyone who expects to get an annual is expected to pay at least $1 down or if they so desire, they may pay the entire amount. This is done at this time so the staff will know how many copies of the annual to order.

OCE Debaters Enter Tourney

The OCE forensics group returned to the campus Saturday after making their third trip to Linfield college where they participated in the intercollegiate forensics tournament held there last Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Thirty schools were represented at the tournament making a total of over 200 debate teams. Other speech contests which were held at the tournament included impromptu speaking, extemporaneous speaking, oratory, after-dinner speaking, and oral interpretation.

OCE had six teams in debate, one contestant in oratory, two in impromptu, one in oral interpretation, and three in extemporaneous speaking. Three of the debate teams were entered in the senior division where they met

Crimson O Gives 'Charley's Aunt'

"Charley's Aunt," the Crimson O production scheduled to be given March 3 and 4 at 8 p.m. in the Campbell hall auditorium, was originally produced in 1892. A few alterations have been made to change mannerisms and dress that might seem old-fashioned to us, but the play remains essentially the same.

This rip-roaring comedy which deals with the complications which arise when Logan Forster as Lord Sancourt Babberly masquerades as Charley's Aunt, is guaranteed to have everyone rolling in the aisle. The cast includes: John Ulrich, Stephen Spettigue; Jack Cohoon, Col. Sir Francis Chesney; Willis Love, Jack Chesney; George Ten Eyck, Charley Wyckham; Ford Forster, Brasses; Ruth Schultz, Dona Lucia D'Alvadorez; Stella Bellingham, Amy Pettigue; Joan Metcalf, Kitty Derdun; Dorothy Lund, Ella Delahay; and Wally Menning, Mr. Farmer.

NOTICE!

Chaplains Speak On Brotherhood

Father George L. O'Keefe of Salem St. Vincent DePaul Parish, and Reverend Clark S. Enz of the Methodist church at Dallas were featured speakers at the special chapel held Friday, February 25, at 11 a.m. This chapel service was held to observe Inter-faith week.

Both speakers stressed the importance of unity, acceptance, and friendliness toward other religions, creeds and colors. They gave examples of how America is more or less of an experiment in religions all living together, and how we must work to see that the experiment is a success, so that other nations will look toward us for guidance in tolerance and unity.

Music was provided by the OCE choir which sang Bach's "Meditation" and "As Torrents in Summer."

Fish Film to be Shown March 4

Do fish talk? Does the porpoise have ears? Is the "silent deep" as silent as it seems? For years scientists have said there is no sound beneath the surface of the sea. Recent developments in sonic research, however, provide some amazing answers.

"Voice of the Deep," Moody Bible Institute's most recent scientific film, will be shown in the Campbell hall auditorium at 11 a.m. on Friday, March 4. The film is a startling revelation of underwater sound — fish that whistle, screech, scream, and even cluck like barnyard chickens parade before underwater cameras to bring to the screen a wonder world of sound and color.

This new film shows not only these phenomena never before observed by man, but also draws a comparison. It has been said by some that there is no reality to the truths of the Bible. After presenting the interesting details of sea-life, Dr. Irwin Moon, director of the Moody Institute of Science, draws an interesting comparison between what has been shown and some Bible truths.

Professor Plans Tour of Mexico

An educational tour of Mexico will be conducted again this summer by Professor Juan B. Rael of Stanford university. The tour will start on August 28 and will include the Independence Day celebrations in Mexico City.

The itinerary will include Cordoba, Cuernavaca, Guadalajara, Mexico City, Orizaba, Puebla, Tehuacan, Taxco as well as the historic port of Acapulco.

The tour may be had at three different prices: August 28-September 12, $270; August 28-September 19, $370; August 28-September 24, $450. These prices are from Los Angeles and return. From El Paso or Tucson and return is $50 less.

Persons wishing further information may write Professor Juan B. Rael, 574 Lasuen street, Stanford university, California.

The Letter Box

To the editor: It has been brought to my attention that during the two week-ends when OCE played Eastern Oregon and Southern Oregon there seemed to be an excessive amount of booing on the part of the fans when fouls were called against our team. This booing bypassed the state of being a minor irritation and if it increases at its present rate is liable to have a detrimental affect upon the team's morale plus embittering the officials.

Refereeing a basketball game is actually a tremendous task and the official, being only a mortal, is bound to err occasionally.

Next time before we exclaim, "Boo!" in disagreement with the official's decision, let's stop and count to three, then think to ourselves: "Boy, would my ears ever be red if I had pulled a boner like he just made." —T.S.

Oregon State college is featured as "campus of the month" in the March issue of the Campus Magazine. It is hoped that this will instill in the students a more active interest in the magazine, because of our close association with Oregon State, both geographically and socially.

The Campus Magazine offers to OCE a helping hand in her drive to put OCE on the map. It seems insufferable to me that a school which has so much to offer students socially and scholastically should remain so insignificant in the minds of both prospective students and the very students on her campus. Aren't you proud of OCE; of the friendliness, the opportunity to be an individual in the eyes of your instructor as well as in the eyes of your fellow students; of Maple hall with its five cent coffee and its nickel-free nickelodeon, its overstuffed easy chairs and coffee tables around the huge fireplace? Aren't you proud to be part of a small organization of other human beings who want to learn so that they might seek to teach? Are you going to trample on the freedom you are offered by refusing to accept anything which might cost you a moment of your time or a quarter out of your allowance?

Have you ever stopped to think that practically everything on this campus is offered to you free except the coffee and cokes you drink and the cigarettes you smoke between classes? Square-dancing, playnights, basketball games in our gym, taffy pulls, dances, swimming trips to the Oregon State college pool, free movies once a week—

The campus Magazine offers us an opportunity to tell the colleges along the coast of our activities and to learn from those of other campuses. Isn't the pride of OCE worth 25 cents a month to you? We have sold an average of 25 magazines a month since we began working with the magazine. Sale of from 50 to 100 copies a month will keep us an active part of their staff. The magazines have been advertised, discussed, publicized, placed before you at every opportunity. The Campus covers activities of nearly all western colleges and is circulated widely on all these campuses. We are a part, true, a very small one, but we are a working part of the thing that can make our school a known one. A campus is as extensive as the goal in the heart of its student body. —B.G.

Clark's Column

You know, they say it is unbecoming to a columnist to perpetually gripe about the state of things. While I feel that I am hardly a columnist, I still find it difficult to pursue my typographical maunderings without loosing a few petulant remarks about how everything is loused up. I find that there is a wealth of material in griping for writing columns. If you are pressed for time, for ideas, or for pants, you can always turn out some pretty hot copy by screaming about the dirty deals life hands out.

For instance, here are a few of the gripes I could write about if I wanted to: I don't have enough money, and what I do have the government takes. Prices are so high that G. Washington howls every time I take him out of my billfold. My feet hurt. There is entirely too much schoolwork and not enough time. I never get any fun. My faucet leaks. Whenever I "aggitate" for some thing I don't get any "corporation." My instructors are giving me a bad time. I don't like the coffee in Maple hall and then I drink so much of it I slosh when I walk. I've seen all the shows that are coming to Monmouth for the next year. My car has an annoying rattle in it. My vision is getting so bad I can't tell bow legs from otherwise anymore. Etc. Etc. Etc.

But, on the other hand, what is the use? There's always the chance that the government will get so much money it will let me have some back. Prices may go down where they were. Arch supports might help my feet and I'm getting out of school pretty soon anyway. The landlord may fix my faucet, I may get cooperation if I quit agitating and I could switch to Calverts. Going to the show costs money, I can sell my car, and bifocals can do wonders. No, I guess things are not so bad. Now, if they would only quit putting so much cereal in my frankfurters—

Collecto Coeds

Collecto Coeds held a meeting Thursday night. Many things were discussed. A committee was appointed to revise and retype the constitution. Committee members include Ruth Schultz, chairman, Elaine Foltz, Joyce Martin, Jean Swaim, Margaret Mills, Louise Petersdorf, Edna Mae Cooper. It was also decided that the club would sponsor a dance in Maple hall so watch for a notice.

Collecto Coed members sold cokes at the basketball games between OCE and Seattle Pacific on Friday and Saturday afternoons.

IVCF News

Rev. Robert Waggoner, pastor of the First Evangelical-United Brethren church of Portland, will speak at the Inter-Varsity meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in room 222 of Campbell hall. Please note this change of time.

At this meeting the "Gospel Heralds," male quartet of Rev. Waggoner's church, will also sing.

DEBATE AT LINFIELD

(Continued from Page One) some of the best speakers in the western colleges. These teams included Helen Mattison and Jewelle Schmidt, Bill Floyd and Boyd Hillesland, and Gerald Hamann and Les McKim. The girls' team placed third in the senior girls' division with three wins and three defeats. Three teams were tied for second place.

The rest of the teams were in the junior division. These teams included Rod and Ann Petty, Ford Forster and Floyd Thompson, and a three-man team made up of Helen Taylor, Barbara Anderson, and Margaret Burnham. The Petty combination carried the largest amount of wins home. They made four wins and only two losses. Ford and Floyd followed close behind with three wins, two losses, and one win on a bye.

The results of the other speeches have not as yet been received by the group. However, none of the group got into the finals so no honors were won.

It looks as if spring is upon us and the love bug has already bitten two familiar people at Todd hall. Congratulations to Norma-Jean Johnson and Gordon Hewitt on their recent engagement. No doubt there will be more engagements in the very near future as spring fever is caught by others, but Norma-Jean and Gordon got the jump on everybody.

Another person who is trying to get the jump on us is Lorna Jager who laid under a sun lamp for four minutes to get tanned. She not only got tanned, but broiled too. Seriously, though, it has caused Lorna a lot of pain and we hope that she is feeling better now. The best way to get tanned is naturally, we surmise.

There was considerable excitement on third floor on Monday night, February 21, as smoke began to billow in the hall. The girls noticed it first while they were walking to their rooms and presently the whole floor was full of inquiring lassies, wondering if the place was on fire or just what was happening. All rooms were investigated carefully, but the source of the smoke was not found. Further investigation led to the kitchen in Painted Alley and the trouble was located. What was it? Just two steaks, burned to a crisp. And who were the culprits? Georgia Thomas and Jerry Leabo, just cooking up a little snack. Go back to bed, girls!

A council meeting was held on Tuesday, February 22, and several things were discussed with regard to improvements of the house in general.

Todd hall will play the off-campus girls in a basketball game on March 2 at 8 p.m. in the gym. The team for Todd hall is composed of Virginia Pomante, Jean Darby, Joanna Clemenson, Elizabeth Vincent, Gwen Stillwell, Jeggy Slater, Marg Ware, Marcela Hoffert, Marie Fery, Roberta Glen, Jean McDade, Ilma Paronin, Elizabeth Hoyser. Come out to this game and root for both teams! and may the best group win.

Dr. Elizabeth Schirmer, who has spoken here several times in the past, again honored us with her presence on Wednesday, February 23, at 8 p.m. She gave a very interesting and enlightening talk to women students at OCE who are married or engaged, and anyone else who cared to attend.

Todd hall residents are looking forward to having as their guest for dinner and for the evening on March 2, Miss Katharine Arbuthnot, beloved former teacher of OCE students, who is now retired and who continues to make her home here in Monmouth. Miss Arbuthnot is a very charming person and is famous for her talks and lovely stories. The evening of March 2 should prove to be very interesting for all who are priv- (Continued on Page Three)

OUT WEST

Howdy pards, brace yourselves, 'cause you're in for another session with the Westerner, who will try to sort out a few facts and give you the low-down on us West Housers.

The main happenings last week were the many and appreciated visits from relatives and friends of the inmates. Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dierks and daughters, Doris and Deana, all of Salem, came to see their son and brother, Daron, an inmate here. Through the week a temporary guest has been stationed here. His name is Dr. Harold Goode and he has been giving the physical examinations at the health center. Thursday night Miss Jean Turner and Kay Miller were the dinner guests of Marv Turner. She is Marv's sister and both she and Kay are from Vernonia.

Ralph Sturdevant and Marv Turner were the recipients of a can of "coffee" which they donated to the house stock; but on closer scrutiny it was found that the coffee was cookies in a coffee can. They were very good anyway and went faster than the coffee would have.

Speaking of spring, the other day Leo Bleszinski, who comes from Massachusetts, said to his roommate, John Arias: "I think I hold a bold choip." John looked quizzically and said, "That was no bold, that was a bird." Leo shrugged and said, "Well, it choiped like bold."

Staff & Key

Staff and Key is sorry to see basketball season drawing to an end. However, there are always good things connected with the bad, no more ice cream bar selling for a while!

To acquaint our new pledges with the organization of Staff and Key, the constitution was read at our meeting Thursday evening.

"Why I Was Elected to Staff and Key" was the title for the 200 word themes read by new members. Mary Pointer's thesis carried out the idea she is now a member due to the protective attitude of her "big sister." The reason Marilyn Schunk explained was based on her "booming personality." Margaret Nys' practical recitation amusingly related she was dubious as to her reason for election. The history of Thelma Serbousek's life to the present time included her ambition to become a member as the explanation of her membership. Each theme was extremely enjoyable to old members and is now added to our collection of masterpieces.

Mrs. Hutchinson, our adviser, graciously invited Staff and Key members to hold our meeting in her home on March 10.

Sigma Epsilon Pi

The girls of Sigma Epsilon Pi and Miss Jane Dale were entertained by Miss Katharine Arbuthnot in her home Sunday afternoon, February 20. Miss Edna Mings was a special guest and we all enjoyed seeing her again.

We traveled around the world with Miss Arbuthnot, stopping here and there to become acquainted with our not too distant neighbors. Several of us had the privilege of really making believe in the costumes of the French, Chinese, Arabs, and Spanish, just to mention a few.

After returning from this unusual trip, we all enjoyed tea and chocolate cake.

Presenting

who was born during the month of July, 1927, in Dickinson, North Dakota. At the age of 10, Marian made a cross-country trip with her family, settling in the nearby town of Albany. She received her grade and high school education in the Albany schools.

Marian, a junior enrolled in teacher training, will receive her three-year certificate in June. She spends her afternoons practicing teaching in Mrs. McKeever's first grade room in Independence. After graduation, she plans to teach in the primary grades.

Playing a fast forward position on the WAA basketball team is but one of Marian's favorite pastimes. Other hobbies include bicycling and baseball. Besides being an ardent athlete and member of WAA, Marian is the secretary-treasurer of the campus Campfire organization and an active member of IVCF.

When asked the greatest moment of her life, Marian answered: "There have really been two great moments in my life. When I first became an aunt and then again when I recently became an aunt for the second time." Two nieces, one aged 11 months and the other just 11 days old, provide the explanation for this outburst of affection.

Attending OCE is nothing new for the Pesheck family. An older sister, Jean, graduated from our alma mater, while a younger sister, Beverley, is now enrolled as a freshman in teacher training.

Parker Patter

Even if we didn't have a dozen calendars about the house, we could still tell that the end of the term is rushing toward us by just observing the studious attitudes of all the girls and by listening to the pounding of the typewriters.

Sunday evening as we all congregated around the heater, Luella gave us a delicious sample of the spice cake that she had baked.

Tuesday evening the girls journeyed the many long blocks out to Doris Anicker's for the Bible study group. Everyone enjoyed the evening and the walk too.

Wednesday night Parker house was represented in the OCE-Willamette girls' basketball game by Miss "X". We have been requested not to mention her name this week.

Also on Wednesday, Miss "Y" baked a pineapple souffle with considerable success for her first try. We have also been requested not to mention her name this week.

It's time that we were patterning off.

Knights Of A.A.

Greetings, all ye friends and knights of the dinner table. This is your rather beaten and fatigued scribe, Sir Gilahad, getting out the olde quill and parchment to send another epistle to you. Yours truly humbly apologizes for not having anything in last week's Lamron, but due to the fact that I was in the infirmary all week keeping an eye on Sir Wilde (sometimes pronounced Wild), who was keeping an eye on me, I was unable to get any news to write. However, I'll try to make up for it this week.

The Knights of A.A. were very proud to have Dr. Arne Bjornberg visit our castle when he was here and meet several of the fellows. In the evening Mr. Noxon took him to see the basketball game. It was the first that he had ever seen, and he was very interested in it. He was amused almost as much by the antics of the high school cheer leaders as he was by the actual game.

Perhaps the biggest news of the last couple of weeks has been the visit of that little fellow who is always popular, particularly around St. Valentine's day, Sir Cupid. Wounded by his arrows was Sir Chuck Humble, who now not only has to take care of his red horse, named Chev, but also has to begin to think about his Lady Mary Ellen. Sir Chuck's A.A. roommate, Sir Gordon Hewitt, must have been nicked a little too, because this week he placed a ring on the finger of Lady Norma Jean. Wow, take a look at that stone!

Last week we were issued some wooden legs. No, none of the knights have lost any legs lately—the legs were for some of the furniture in the main court of our castle.

On one of his various trips around the countryside in his green chariot, named Nash, Sir "Don Quixote" Wilde decided to take on an army of mail boxes. The results of the battle were—one smashed right rear fender and a few dented white posts. Last Sunday, Sirs Wilde and Tilden drove down to Junction City; there they repaired the front seat of the chariot, but left the fender the way it was.

And, speaking of Sir Dale Tilden, he has just announced that he will be very willing to protect a certain lady of yonder castle from all evils and dangers including wolves in sheep's clothing or big convertibles. This lady has brown hair, dimples, is about 69

Here is a riddle for you to solve: Three men walked into a hotel and asked the clerk how much it would cost them for a room for a night; whereupon she told them that it would cost $30 or $10 each. They paid $10 apiece and went upstairs to their room. Now, the clerk felt kind of guilty for having charged them so much for the room, so she called the bellboy and told him to take $5 upstairs to the men and to divide it between them. The boy took the money, but while on his way upstairs, he decided that he didn't know how to divide $5 three ways, so he kept $2 and gave each of the three men $1. This meant that each man has paid $9, for he had paid $10 at first, but now has received $1 back, making his total payment only $9. Now, here is the sticker: If three men paid $9 each and three times nine is 27, and the bellboy has $2, making a total of $29 — where is the other dollar? (Solution next week in case you haven't already figured it out for yourself.)

Seattle P. Bows To OCE 78 68

The OCE hoop squad got off to a fast start here Friday afternoon and kept the lead all the way as they outscored and out-ran the Seattle Pacific college Falcons. After scoring 28 points in the first quarter of the contest, to the Falcons' 15, the Wolves could not be stopped.

The first few minutes of the game saw the local crew build up a substantial lead and proceed to hold the travelers to eight points. The Wolves then slowed down and began to play a comparatively slow game but the pace was still fast enough to keep the Falcons in check. As the second half started the Seattle Pacific collegians made a definite bid for the lead but it fell short and the Wolves continued on to their second victory of the week by a 78-68 score.

Jess Palmer again ran off with the scoring honors by dropping in nine field goals and one charity toss for a total of 19 points. Marv Hiebert trailed the honor man with a total of 15 tallies. The Falcons' high point men were Duane Maggee and Len Root with 14 apiece. Gene Holweger also matched this mark. The lineups:

"John, darling," began the young matron, "you sent me six lovely roses today and I appreciate them very much but was there any special reason for sending six of them?"

"Yes, my pet," replied the honest young man. "Twelve of them cost entirely too much!"

Willamette Gals Defeated 26-24

The highlight of WAA basketball this week was the Wolverines' victory over the Willamette university WAA crew of Salem. The local gals got off to a fine start and continued on to a 26-24 victory last Wednesday.

The Wolverines surged ahead early in the contest. While the Salem girls tried hard to keep up they could not muster enough points to come up and the half-time score was 18-10 for OCE.

Wolves Upset PU

The Wolves, remembering their last-second defeat at the hands of the Pacific university Badgers in Forest Grove, built up a 10-point lead in the first few minutes of the game here at Monmouth last Tuesday evening and kept it all the way to upset the favored P.U. casaba crew by a 75-64 count.

Setting a rapid pace, the Wolves controlled the game, for the most part never letting the Badgers come within less than seven points of the lead. Fifty personal fouls were whistled in the contest, with each side collecting 25.

Marv Hiebert, setting the pace in the second half, collected a total of 21 points for top scoring honors. Jess Palmer and Harrell Smith followed with 15 and 14 points respectively. Dick Morgan was P.U.'s only hot-shot and he collected a total of 18 points.

The OCE JayVee squad dropped the rough and tumble preliminary to the Pacific U understudies.

The Summation Of Les McKim

By Lester McKim

There are strange things crooned
'neath the midnight moon
By men who toil for knowledge
The college deans describe queer scenes

'Bout the boys and girls in college.

My father, a fool, sent me off to school

To learn all the things he missed,

So I picked up the know-how and am ready to go now

To expound on how to be kissed.

Now when you see me at old OCE

Looking both jolly and mean,

The chances are great that I'm casting my bait

For a ride to the well-known canteen.

For the knowledge that comes from us various bums

Who enliven the old campus life,

That is what we'll recall when we make our great fall

And are settled with some little wife.

The poor fathers spent money to mend up the faults

That to most of them were apparent

They sit home and boast of the boy all will toast

And forget that the faults are inherent.

Yes, there are strange things crooned 'neath the midnight moon

By us guys who stay on the ball

If this is not your belief it should be to your grief

That you don't live in the girls dorm, Todd hall.

All-Stars Edge JV Drop To Pagers

In a non-scheduled affair here last Monday evening the intramural all-stars edged the JayVee squad by a 62-58 margin. It was a close contest all the way and it was only the last few seconds that decided the contest.

Ronnie Mollanen and Bob Estes split the scoring honors for the JV's with 14 tallies apiece. They were closely followed by George Redden of the all-stars with 13.

The all-stars dropped their first game last week to the commercial Page Woolens of Salem by a narrow two-point margin. Bill Hill, taking the ball on a rebound, just had time to cast off from behind the center line before the horn sounded ending the game. The shot was wide however and the game ended on this note. The contest was close all the way and the score of 62-64 tells the story pretty well.

ARNOLD ARMS

inches in height, and plays forward on the freshman basketball team.

Sir Harold Howard has made the news again. This time he returned to our castle with his chest all taped up. It is believed that he had a battle with a huge nine-headed ogre from some distant castle, although he claims that he got his chestbone cracked in basketball. Of course, we all know that no one could get hurt in a nice soft game like basketball—don't we, Sir Merlin?

Our abode has seen a little more than usual of Sir Cleve Lothgrin lately, due to the fact that Pedee high school was closed for a few days a while back because of extra high water. Sir Cleve hasn't been spending his spare time twiddling his fingers, however; we understand that he has spent a lot of it playing a game called "bridge." Tell us, Sir Cleve, is that drawbridge or suspension bridge?

M. Noxon went to hear Marion Anderson when she was in Portland. While he was there, he made a visit to Parkrose school—here he was combining business with pleasure.

The theme song of some of the knights here is "Dark Town Poker Club." They prefer to have it done in the typical Phil Harris styling. I wonder what that song means to them?

The small quarters of Sir Stan Brown has been the scene of many early morning debates and discussions. We understand that Sir Stan and Sir Marv Hart have talked about many things including their studies and some things that wouldn't exactly come under the classification of "studies."

Well, friends, my berry juice ink is just about gone and my quill is running dry, so I guess I'll just have to close up shop and come again some other time.

Falcons Beaten In Final

The Wolves completed their season's schedule in a big way Saturday when they downed the Seattle Pacific college Falcons by a score of 99-84 in the PE building. With the lead changing hands 10 times in the first half it was anyone's ball game. As the 17-minute mark of the first half was reached the Wolves turned on the heat to pull away for an eight-point 43-35 lead at halftime.

As the second half began the Falcons made a desperate bid to keep in the game and succeeded in tying the score at 53-53. The lead changed hands six times before the Wolves again turned on the speed and gradually pulled away from a Seattle squad that was not beaten until the final minutes of the contest and at no time gave the Wolves the idea that they had won until the horn sounded.

Jess Palmer was the big gun for the afternoon and led the scoring with 30 tallies on 11 field goals and eight gifters. Jess canned 18 of his 30 points in the first half. Dean Howell and Len Root kept the visiting crew in the game with 23 points apiece.

OCE 99		84 FALCONS
Smith 12	F	13 Magee
Hiebert 15	F	23 Howell
Palmer 30	C	23 Root
McKee 2	G	4 McCallum
Holweger 10	G	5 Dahner

Subs: OCE, Buckley 16, Mattison 6, Humble 8, Thayer, Hamer, Wilson; Seattle Pacific, Cochrane 7, Parker 4, Nelson 2, Leirer 2, Mikelson 1.
